Report to the Louisiana Legislature
In Response to HCR 88 of the 2011 Regular Legislative Session
Relative to Terminology Referring to Persons with Disabilities

Submitted to the Louisiana Legislature on

June 7, 2013
REPORT TO THE LOUISIANA LEGISLATURE
IN RESPONSE TO HCR 88 OF THE 2011 REGULAR LEGISLATIVE SESSION
RELATIVE TO TERMINOLOGY REFERRING TO PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES
SUBMITTED BY THE LOUISIANA STATE LAW INSTITUTE
ON JUNE 7, 2013

House Concurrent Resolution No. 88 ("HCR 88") of the 2011 Regular Legislative Session requested that the Louisiana State Law Institute ("Law Institute") evaluate terminology used to refer to persons with disabilities and propose alternative terminology to be used prospectively, to identify terms currently appearing in the law that convey negative or derogatory perceptions of persons with disabilities and recommend substitute language for these provisions, and to identify provisions of the law where substitutions of this language cannot be made because the substitution would alter or render ambiguous the substantive meaning of the current provision. Further, HCR 88 directs the Law Institute, in recommending substitute terminology, to use terminology that "puts the person before the disability."

The Law Institute staff has researched the occurrences and usage of terms that convey negative or derogatory perceptions of persons with disabilities and has provided substitute terms. The recommended substitutions have been reviewed by members of the Coordinating, Semantics, Style and Publications Committee and approved by the Council of the Law Institute. One member expressed concern about unintentionally broadening the application of affected provisions or changing the names of programs with the substitution of recommended terms. Accordingly, staff respectfully submits this report to serve as general information and guidance and would recommend a case-by-case review of the use of these terms to ensure the appropriateness of substituting recommended terms in a particular statute or article. Where possible, the definitions of terms currently in use are provided. Where the terms are not defined, the generally prevailing meaning is provided. Terms that may be replaced at all instances without changing the application of current law have been identified. A list of occurrences of each of the terms has also been provided.

Where substitutions are made, it is important to note that persons with disabilities should not be referred to as "suffering from" or "being" a given condition but, instead, as "having" or "being a person with" that diagnosis.

"INFIRM"

"The mentally infirm" or "the physically infirm" are terms cited by HCR 88 as examples of language that may be considered demeaning or disrespectful to persons with disabilities. The term is not defined in the law, but "infirm" usually describes someone who is "not strong and healthy; physically weak or feeble, [especially] through age."¹

Our law makes a distinction between those who are infirm (or "infirmed") and those who have disabilities. Most of the provisions referring to "infirm" persons also refer to "disabled" persons, including two provisions cited in HCR 88.2 In the remaining provisions, the term "infirm" is used with the term "aged" or is used alone to refer to a broad range of conditions limiting a person's abilities. For example, in La. R.S. 14:93.5, also cited in HCR 88, a victim of sexual battery of the infirm may be incapable of preventing the act "because of advanced age or physical infirmity," "by reason of stupor or abnormal condition of the mind produced by an intoxicating, narcotic, or anesthetic agent administered by or with the privity of the offender," "by reason of a stupor or abnormal condition of mind from any cause," or "through unsoundness of mind, whether temporary or permanent."3 The term seems to be a general term referring to persons who are not healthy.

Unfortunately, because "infirm" is not well-defined and used differently in each occurrence, there is not one phrase that would be a satisfactory substitution in each instance. To use person-first language, the phrase "persons with an infirmity" may in some instances be substituted for "the infirm," and "persons with disabilities" may be substituted in other instances. A case-by-case analysis would be required to replace this term with a preferred one.

"Crippled"

The term "crippled" is not defined in our law, but it is usually considered an offensive term used to refer to one who is "disabled from the use of one's limbs."4 This term should be substituted with the phrase "persons with physical disabilities."

"Dumb"

The term "dumb" is not defined in our law, but its usual meaning is "destitute of the faculty of speech."5 The term should be substituted with the phrase "persons who are unable to speak."

2 "Simple battery of the infirm is a battery committed against an infirm, disabled, or aged person . . . ." LA. REV. STAT. ANN. §14:35.2(A) (2013). "Cruelty to the infirmed is the intentional or criminally negligent mistreatment or neglect [of] the infirmed, a disabled adult, or an aged person . . . ." LA. REV. STAT. ANN. § 14:93.3(A) (2013).
"HANDICAPPED"

The term "handicapped" is not generally defined in our law, though it is defined in several provisions for the purposes of those Chapters. It is usually defined as one who is "physically or mentally disabled." The term may be replaced with "persons with disabilities," but a case-by-case review is recommended.

"RETARDED," "MENTAL RETARDATION," OR "MENTALLY RETARDED"

"Retarded," "mental retardation" or "mentally retarded" are terms that are widely considered to provide negative or derogatory perceptions of persons with disabilities. One definition of the term "mental retardation" is provided in La. C.Cr.P. art. 905.5.1(H)(1), as follows: "Mental retardation' means a disability characterized by significant limitations in both intellectual functioning and adaptive behavior as expressed in conceptual, social, and practical adaptive skills. The onset must occur before the age of eighteen years." This definition is derived from the criteria required for the same diagnosis in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, fourth edition, widely known as "DSM-IV," a manual published by the American Psychiatric Association that includes all currently recognized mental health disorders.

Efforts to replace this term with preferred terms have already begun. In 2010, Congress enacted "Rosa's Law" (Appendix B) to amend instances of this term in federal law and substitute the terms "intellectual disabilities," "having intellectual disabilities," or "individuals with intellectual disabilities" as appropriate. Texas subsequently enacted H.B. 1481 (Appendix C), substituting the phrase "intellectual disabilities" throughout state law.

The substitutions made by Rosa's Law were made only to a few areas of the law, namely the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, the vocational rehabilitation program, the Americans with Disabilities Act, and certain health care provisions. Other statutes, such as the Social Security Act and the programs subject to it, still use the term "mental retardation," possibly to comport with the diagnosis in the DSM-IV. However, the fifth edition of the DSM, DSM-5, published in May 2013, changed the diagnostic term "mental retardation" to 6 Eg., "Handicapped: having a permanent physical impairment which includes any physiological disorder or condition, cosmetic disfigurement, or anatomical loss affecting one or more of the following body systems: neurological, musculoskeletal, speech organs, skin, and endocrine, which substantially limits one or more major life activity of an individual, as defined in R.S. 28:477(3)(a), as verified by two physicians or as certified by the Veteran's Administration as meeting the qualifications and approved by the division." LA. REV. STAT. ANN. §39:1952(14)(e).

"intellectual disability."\textsuperscript{11} This term (and variations of the term) should be replaced at each instance.\textsuperscript{12}

"IDIocy," "idiOTic," "Imbecility," "FEEble-Minded," and "MEntally DeFective"

General recommendation: substitute with "persons with intellectual disabilities"

The terms "idiocy," "idiotic," "imbecility," "feeble-minded," and "mentally defective" were all clinical terms dating back to the late 19\textsuperscript{th} century, used to describe the placement of patients on an I.Q. scale and their level of intellectual impairment (or mental retardation).\textsuperscript{13} The recommendation is to replace these terms with "intellectual disabilities" or "persons with intellectual disabilities," as appropriate, at each instance.

Exception: Various or unnecessary uses of "mentally defective"

Use of the term "mentally defective" in Title 28 of the Louisiana Revised Statutes (Mental Health) makes its meaning as applied in those provisions unclear. For example, the term is used in R.S. 28:58 in reference to criminal proceedings in which a person is "mentally defective to the extent that he is unable to understand the proceeding against him or assist in his defense."\textsuperscript{14} This provision is included in Part III of Chapter 1 of Title 28, entitled "Examination, Admission, Committee, and Treatment of Persons Suffering from Mental Illness and Substance Abuse." The term, historically used to mean "mental retardation," may be being misused as a general term for all persons with a mental impairment.\textsuperscript{15}

If "mentally defective" is being used as a general term for impairments of the mind, there is no recommendation for replacing it; there is no appropriate, broad substitute term. The affected provisions require a case-by-case analysis for appropriate substitutions identifying the conditions intended to be covered.

\textsuperscript{12} In Louisiana, the term "developmental disabilities" appears in over 100 provisions of state law. This term is not synonymous with the definition for "mental retardation" under state law or the DSM. Louisiana's definition of "developmental disabilities" comports with the DSM-IV definition of "pervasive developmental disorders," which includes autism-spectrum disorders. \textit{See L.A. REV. STAT. ANN.} \textsection 28:451.2(12) (2013); \textit{supra} note 8, 69-85. It is essential that the references to "developmental disabilities" in current law be maintained and that this term not be used when referring to the diagnosis identified as "mental retardation."

\textsuperscript{15} By contrast, the term "mental deficiency" is used in the same Title (R.S. 28:721) and has a definition similar to that of "mental retardation." A similar definition of "mental deficiency" is also used in Ch.C. art. 1003(8).
The phrase "mentally defective" in R.S. 13:1336(C)(1) and 1338(A) and C.Cr.P. art. 648(B)(1) can be deleted without changing the meaning of the provision.

Person-first language

There are hundreds of instances in the law where people are equated with their conditions, e.g. mentally ill, quadriplegic/paraplegic, or autistic. The Legislature may wish to amend these provisions in favor of person-first language, as was done by Act 418 of the 2012 Regular Legislative Session (Appendix D). "Mentally ill" would become "persons with mental illness," "quadriplegic/paraplegic" would become "persons with quadriplegia or paraplegia," and "autistic" would become "persons with autism."

Finally, in any legislation resulting from this report, a statement of legislative intent may be included memorializing that the substitute terms refer to conditions formerly known by the original phrases and that the amendment is not intended to impact rights, responsibilities, interpretation, or eligibility under the affected provisions. Examples of such language appear in both Rosa's law and Texas H.B. 1481. The legislature may also wish to include direction to administrative agencies to use the preferred language in agency rules and materials, as was done in Rosa's Law and Texas H.B. 1481.

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Louisiana is committed to promoting the respect and dignity of all individuals; and

WHEREAS, many provisions of existing Louisiana law refer to certain persons as "mentally infirm" or "physically infirm", including but not limited to simple battery of the infirm (R.S. 14:35.2), sexual battery of the infirm (R.S. 14:93.5), and cruelty to the infirmed (R.S. 14:93.3); and

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Louisiana recognizes that language used in reference to individuals with disabilities shapes and reflects society's attitudes toward people with disabilities; and

WHEREAS, the Legislature of Louisiana recognizes that certain terms, including "infirm", could be construed as demeaning or disrespectful and could create an invisible barrier to the inclusion of these individuals with disabilities as equal community members; and

WHEREAS, in addressing this issue, it is necessary for the Louisiana State Law Institute to evaluate and recommend preferred language, for newly enacted laws and future revisions to current laws, which uses terminology that puts the person before the disability, that avoids the use of language that implies that a person as a whole is disabled, or that equates persons with their conditions.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Legislature of Louisiana does hereby urge and request the Louisiana State Law Institute to review and evaluate terminology that is currently contained in Louisiana law which refers to persons with disabilities, and to propose alternative terminology to be used prospectively by the Legislature of Louisiana when enacting or amending legislation which refers to persons with disabilities.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Louisiana State Law Institute identify and recommend for substitution terms currently appearing in Louisiana law which convey negative or derogatory perceptions of persons with disabilities and recommend replacement terminology for these identified provisions.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Louisiana State Law Institute identify and report to the legislature provisions of current law in which terminology changes may not be made because the change would alter or render ambiguous the substantive meaning of any current provision of law.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Louisiana State Law Institute report its findings and recommendations to the Legislature of Louisiana prior to the convening of the 2012 Regular Session of the Legislature of Louisiana.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of this Resolution be transmitted to the Louisiana State Law Institute, Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Vice President of the United States and President of the Senate.
AN ACT
relating to the use of person first respectful language in reference to individuals with disabilities.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

SECTION 1. Subtitle Z, Title 3, Government Code, is amended by adding Chapter 392 to read as follows:

CHAPTER 392. PERSON FIRST RESPECTFUL LANGUAGE INITIATIVE

Sec. 392.001. FINDINGS AND INTENT. The legislature finds that language used in reference to persons with disabilities shapes and reflects society's attitudes toward persons with disabilities.
Certain terms and phrases are demeaning and create an invisible barrier to inclusion as equal community members. It is the intent of the legislature to establish preferred terms and phrases for new and revised laws by requiring the use of language that places the person before the disability.

Sec. 392.002. USE OF PERSON FIRST RESPECTFUL LANGUAGE
REQUIRED. (a) The legislature and the Texas Legislative Council are directed to avoid using the following terms and phrases in any new statute or resolution and to change those terms and phrases used in any existing statute or resolution as sections including those terms and phrases are otherwise amended by law:

(1) disabled;
(2) developmentally disabled;
(3) mentally disabled;
H.B. No. 1481

(4) mentally ill;
(5) mentally retarded;
(6) handicapped;
(7) cripple; and
(8) crippled.

(b) In enacting or revising statutes or resolutions, the legislature and the Texas Legislative Council are directed to replace, as appropriate, terms and phrases listed by Subsection (a) with the following preferred phrases or appropriate variations of those phrases:

(1) "persons with disabilities";
(2) "persons with developmental disabilities";
(3) "persons with mental illness"; and
(4) "persons with intellectual disabilities."

(c) A statute or resolution is not invalid solely because it does not employ this section's preferred phrases.

SECTION 2. Chapter 325, Government Code, is amended by adding Section 325.0123 to read as follows:

Sec. 325.0123. REVIEW OF CERTAIN AGENCIES FOR RESPECTFUL LANGUAGE.
